

U.S. Digital Asset Regulatory Reform

February 3, 2022 | Client Update

Consensus has emerged among policymakers, regulators and the industry on the need for sound regulation of digital assets that supports innovation and inclusion. This deck looks across the digital asset landscape to regulatory developments on the horizon in key areas, including the regulation of digital asset trading activities, stablecoins, DeFi and central bank digital currency, among others. We will continue to track these issues and will provide another update later in the year.
